

NATASHA PARRETT NAMED ONE OF SILICON VALLEY'S "2011 WOMEN OF INFLUENCE"

Natasha Parrett, Shareholder and Chair of Hoge Fenton's family law practice, has been selected as one of Silicon Valley's "2011 Women of Influence" by the Silicon Valley/San Jose Business Journal, and will be honored at a dinner on April 14.

Natasha attended Santa Clara University School of Law and did her undergraduate work at U.C. Berkeley. Her first attorney position was as a Navy Lieutenant/Attorney in the Navy Judge Advocate General's Corps. Natasha identifies her proudest workplace achievement as becoming a shareholder at Hoge Fenton and having the opportunity to guide and manage the future of the firm's family law practice, and her biggest workplace challenge as balancing the emotionally charged practice with the practical application of effective advocacy of the law. Phil Hammer, a senior Hoge Fenton attorney, is Natasha's business hero. "I am fortunate to have had Phil as a mentor and role model," Natasha commented. "Phil has built a reputation in the community as a legal scholar and practitioner, and has given back to the community in so many ways - and encouraged me to serve the community. He has built the family law group at Hoge Fenton and continues to support my individual practice and the firm's family law practice."
