Employers' Hard Lessons Learned Through Wage & Hour Lawsuits

SEPTEMBER 22, 2021 | 8:00 - 10:00 AM PST

HOGE • FENTON

Wage and hour lawsuits can be a nightmare for employers—even more so when an employee brings claims on a class-wide basis or on behalf of other “aggrieved employees” under the Private Attorneys General Act (PAGA).

Often, employers believe they are in compliance with California's myriad wage and hour laws, but there are minor technicalities (e.g., untimely or short meal breaks) or issues that are not documented (e.g., off-the-clock work) that can catch employers off guard and escalate what appears to be a simple and low-dollar issue into a six-figure, or sometimes seven-figure, settlement or judgment.

California courts have also been particularly unkind to employers in 2021, with a few rulings that increase the likelihood of being sued and increase employers' potential exposure. There have also been (rare) favorable court rulings, and some important issues that the California Supreme Court is expected to rule on in the coming months.

Please join us for an engaging and educational wage and hour legal update and practical guidance on how to avoid and defend against lawsuits on Wednesday, September 22, 2021, from 8:00 - 10:00 AM PST. Among other topics, we will cover:

- Meal and rest breaks
- Overtime
- "Regular rate" calculations
- Final pay
- Expense reimbursements
- PAGA standing and "stacking" of penalties
- Extended statutes of limitations due to the pandemic

Continuing Education Credits Offered: 2 hours of MCLE, HRCI, and SHRM
